A MISER'S END.

Meanness of M. Vandille and the Way He Hastened His Death.

M. Vandille was chief magistrate at Boulogne and by miserly habits left a fortune of $4,000,000. His usual diet was bread and milk. The bread cost very little, and after eating his loaf at home his habit was to become his own public milk inspector, whom as chief magistrate he had the right to appoint And so, as he declared, to protect the inhabitants from being imposed upor by an inferior quality of milk he tool his walk immediately after eating his loaf and demanded to taste the milk o every salesman he passed, thus savin; himself from purchasing any. Miser are generally strong men-they have t. be so in order to live a life of priva tion-but eventually Vandille, like oth er misers, was seized with illness, and the surgeons had to be called in. In those days they bled their patients The surgeon asked Vandille half : livre for the operation, but the million aire ordered him at once out of his sight and sent for the apothecary. The apothecary refused to cut the price down, so Vandillé sent for a poor bar ber, who undertook to open a vein for three sous a time.

"Aye, but," said this worthy econo mist, "how often, friend, will it be necessary to bleed me?"

"Three times." "And what quantity of blood do you intend to take each time?" "Eight ounces."

"Well, but why can't you take the whole twenty-four ounces at once: You want to make a job of me, you scoundrel! Here, sir; there are your three sous. Take the twenty-four ounces immediately." The barber was generous to obey. M. Vandille lost the twenty-four ounces of blood and died in a few days, leaving all his vast treasures to the king, whom he made his sole heir. -Strand Magazine.

PLAN TO GET MORE TRADE.

How a Booster's Trip Was Organized In a Kansas Town.

The Anthony Bulletin suggests a trade boosting plan which we consider a mighty good one and one which the merchants of Wichita, Kan, and every other town in the south and could offord to indulge in as well as Authory It's a booster trip on a small scale, and we honestly believe that it would be as profitable to the retail interests to indulge in semething of this sort as the larger and more extensive trips have proved to the wholesale interests of Wichita. We think so much of the scheme that we believe we will inaugurate a booster automobile trip among our retail interests. The Bulletin says:

The merchants in some Kansas towns are doing a thing that Anthony merchants should do. They are visiting the people in their trade territory. This is the way they do it: On certain days they gather up enough automobiles about their town to carry those who will go and then start cut for a pleasure trip to the neighboring towns in the county and in their trade territory. They call on all the merchants in these towar and see the people and visit with the farmers living along the way. By such visits friendships are made and interest awakened in matters of mutual interest, acquaintances are formed, and the particular town represented by the teuring merchants is well advertised. It is somewhat on the order of the more ambitious trips taken by rail by the jobbers and wholesale houses of Kansas Pity and Wichita.

Authory merclacits could do the trick nicely. There are plenty of automobiles. There are many small towns about Ambony, and the people in these towns would be glad to become better acquainted with Anthony | haprove the town of Fioretice, N. J., merchants. There are many farmers which is one of the most prosperous to be reached on every road out of on the New Jersey side of the Dela-Anthony, and these farmers would be ware. JERSEY TOWN'S GOOD MOVE.

What a Shovel, Broom and Rake Brigade Has Done For Florence.

Much has been dete to remodel and adepted by other towns in the country. The river road appreach to the town has been reconstructed. A marrow, ill kept thoroughfare was converted into a boulevard, skirted by a park and a handred pretty new cotneed a dose of Chamberlain's Ston- tages. Then a handsome new brick ofand Liver Tab'ets. They strengthen fice building took the place of the old digestive organs, improve the appe- frame structure. Unconscious probably of their incentive, residents began to brighted up their own properties.

Prominent citizens organized the Shovel, Broom and Rake Brigade, a society pledged to keep the streets clean and encourage floral beautification of the town. As a result of its work several large flower beds have already been set out along the highways. It has also kept the street and yards spick and span.

Mrs. Ella Heover Thacher, head of the county Woman's Christian Temperance union, has taken an active part in the "city beautiful" work. At a mass meeting called by a committee of the women Daniel Bishop, Willian Absolom and John Peaceck were ap pointed to head the work of improvements. They precured passage by the township authorities of ordinances requiring that streets and yards be kept dean and have seen their demand for the appointment of the town's first reg ular policemen fulfilled.

Strangely, the improvements are so for cotchied entirely to that section locally known as "Foundrytown." But the spirit of improvement is spreading. Two boulevards encircling the lower end of the town are already under construction. Citizens are talking of applying to the next legislature for a city charter.
